industries with the support of an intricate backbone and infrastructure alongside a world-class supply chain and logistics operation. By being in one of Kuwait's leading universities like AUK, we hope to provide students with the opportunity to kick-start their careers through AAW's diverse business lines."

AAW has a long track record in supply chain management and logistics operations, moving over 200,000 products a day through a 250,000 cubic meter warehouse. The company currently leads in this distribution for more than 100 international brands across eight retail sectors, distributing for various world-class brands such as Procter and Gamble, Roche, Takeda, Biotronik, Bioderma, Nolte Group, La Cornue, Bosch, Siemens, The North Face, Nike, and Crocs.

AUK President, Dr Nizar Hamza

said: "Each year, more than 270 students visit our job fair where more than 25 companies from Kuwait, and across the Middle East, participate. This is the fourth consecutive year in which AAW participates, and through which has successfully hired 13 students. We believe AUK's students are well-positioned to grow and advance within many companies in Kuwait and we thank AAW for providing our students the opportunity to kick-start their careers."

With a commitment to community work, AAW supports sports, health and educational initiatives across Kuwait including other student-driven programs like the cross-country Pin2 business plan challenge for high-school students, job shadowing day, and entrepreneurship Masterclass.
