

(From left) Shayma Ameen, Nejou Al-Yagout and Shurooq Amin

(From left) Sakina Makki, Nejou Al-Yagout and Al-Anoud Al-Sharekh.

Nejou Al-Yagout and her mother Badriya Boudai

NEJOU AL-YAGOUT HOSTS BOOK SIGNING

By Athoob Al-Shuaibi

From the Dar Hamad restaurant, Poet Nejou Al-Yagout launched her second collection of books last Monday. The book signing event was attended by a group of public figures and her fans, in addition to family members and friends. "I just published a book called 'Awake of The Game of Pretending,'" she said. "It is my second collection of poetry. This book deals with a spiritual journey chronicled in six chapters. Awakening, Dark Night of The Soul, The Matrix, Realm Love, Form of Expression, and finally, It Culminates Under The Divine. So, Everything goes back to the source". She added that she was very lucky that she got to hold the book signing at Dar Hamad. "It is a new restaurant and this event is planned by the November Company," she explained.

Nejou Al-Yagout is a Kuwaiti poet. The talented author is also an Honorary Life Member of ALL Ladies League (ALL) and is the State Committee Chairperson in Kuwait for Literature.

The poet took some photographs with her fans and the invitees in a very friendly and casual party. In attendance was her mother Badria Budai, who came to support her daughter's promising poetry journey. You can get her collection of poetry on the internet via Amazon, as well as Barnes and Noble. They are available in both printed form and ebooks for Kindle, iBooks, Nook and Kobo and Google Play. Visit Nejou Al-Yagout website <http://www.nejoudalyagout.com> for more information.

Nejou signs a copy of her book.

Nejou Al-Yagout's poetry collection

Farah Khajah, a fan of the poet, reads a copy of her newest book.

TWO AUK STUDENTS RECEIVE XEROX ACADEMIC SCHOLARSHIP

Xerox awarded two students from the American University of Kuwait (AUK) with the Xerox Scholarship Award, a new initiative launched by the company this year as part of Xerox's corporate social activities program. Darin Kabkaoui and Omar Raad, Computer Engineering students at AUK, were selected from a pool of students who fulfilled the criteria required to be eligible for the scholarships and received the scholarships based on their excellent academic performance.

AUK President, Professor Nizar Hamzeh, was joined by AUK's Chief Information Officer, Rusty Bruns, and Xerox General Manager, Ayman Mattar, as well as other representatives from Xerox, at a ceremony held in AUK to officially present the scholarships to the recipients.

"As the private sector is an essential partner of student education, I would like to take this opportunity to thank Xerox Kuwait for contributing to our Scholarship and Financial Aid Program. Darin and Omar are distinguished by their excellent scholastic records and hard work and worthy of winning the Xerox Academic Scholarship," expressed Professor Hamzeh.

While presenting the students with the scholarships, Mattar explained why Xerox Scholarship Award program is an important initiative. "Education is an investment that never fails. Xerox is proud to be part of a program that helps the students of today become the leaders of tomorrow," he said. The Xerox Scholarship Award is awarded to students who have completed a minimum of 30 credit hours in any of the Engineering, Computer Science, or Information System majors at AUK while maintaining a minimum of a 3.0 GPA. AUK evaluates and selects the scholarship recipients.

Another group photo with the students.

A group photo with the students.

(Left to right) AUK President, Professor Nizar Hamzeh; the scholarship student Darin Kabkaoui; Ayman Mattar; and Rusty Bruns

The Scholarship students, Darin Kabkaoui and Omar Raad

(Left to right) AUK President, Professor Nizar Hamzeh; the scholarship student Omar Raad; Ayman Mattar; and Rusty Bruns